With massive potential for extension, this basic village house has an amazing location in the shadow of Álora's stunning castle. The property has two entrances, from the front you enter via a raised terrace with great views across the town and from the rear, via garage doors into the extensive outside areas. The house is perfectly liveable, with a modern shower room and fitted kitchen, living room and upstairs two double bedrooms. However, it is the outside space that make this property such a worthwhile investment. With a large patio area from the kitchen with the bathroom and a small storage shed and then steps up to the garage and patio. The patio would be an ideal place to extend the existing house, by one or two levels, with a roof terrace to take advantage of the views. All in all a very interesting property, with masses of additional parking to the rear if needed. #ref:APN7156
